Proposing a Model of Leader-member Exchange: Leadership Style, Exchange and Employee Psychological Outcomes

ZHANG Cong

A thesis submitted in partial fulfillment of the requirements for the degree of Master of Philosophy

Principal Supervisor: Dr. Vivian C. SHEER

Hong Kong Baptist University

August 2008
ABSTRACT

A model of leader-member exchange is proposed and the relationships among leadership style, leader-member exchange, group membership status and employee psychological outcomes are explored using data from a survey of mainland Chinese employees (n = 344).

The results suggest that both transformational leadership and transactional leadership involve frequent leader-member exchange in terms of work-related communication exchange, non-work communication exchange, work-related non-communication exchange and non-work non-communication exchange. Leaders were found to interact with in-group members more frequently than with out-group members. In-group members had more positive psychological outcomes compared with out-group members. Through exchange with members, both transformational leaders and transactional leaders can enhance followers’ perceptions of being in-group members, so as to increase those employees’ positive psychological outcomes.

More experienced supervisors were more likely to exhibit a transformational or transactional leadership style, and their subordinates were more likely to report positive psychological outcomes in terms of leadership satisfaction, trust, compliance, job satisfaction and commitment. Employees’ commitment to their organizations was positively associated with their tenure in the organization.
TABLE OF CONTENTS

DECLARATION........................................................................................................i

ABSTRACT...............................................................................................................ii

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS.......................................................................................iii

TABLE OF CONTENTS...........................................................................................v

LIST OF TABLES.....................................................................................................ix

LIST OF FIGURES..................................................................................................x

LIST OF APPENDICES..........................................................................................xi

CHAPTER I INTRODUCTION...............................................................................1

CHAPTER II LITERATURE REVIEW.................................................................5

  2.1 Leadership Styles............................................................................................5

  2.1.1 Transformational Leadership.......................................................................7

  2.1.2 Transactional Leadership............................................................................8

  2.1.3 Authoritarian Leadership...........................................................................8

  2.1.4 Leadership Styles in Chinese Organizations..............................................9

  2.2 The Theoretical Perspective of Leader-Member Exchange (LMX)..............11

  2.2.1 Description of LMX Theory......................................................................12

  2.2.2 Historical Development of LMX Theory..................................................13

  2.2.3 Constructs of Leader-Member Exchange..................................................14

  2.2.4 Dimensions of Leader-Member Exchange...............................................15

  2.3 Critique of LMX Theory..............................................................................15

  2.3.1 Absence of Communication Component...............................................16

  2.3.2 Absence of Non-Work Exchange.........................................................18
2.4 Research on Communication and Non-Work Exchange

2.4.1 Supervisor-Subordinate Communication

2.4.2 Supervisor-Subordinate Non-Work Exchange

2.5 Group Membership Status: In- and Out-group

2.6 Employee Psychological Outcomes

2.6.1 Leadership Satisfaction

2.6.2 Supervisor Relationship Satisfaction

2.6.3 Supervisor-Subordinate Trust

2.6.4 Subordinate Compliance

2.6.5 Job Satisfaction

2.6.6 Organizational Commitment

2.7 A Proposed LMX Model

2.7.1 Leadership Style

2.7.2 Leader-Member Exchange

2.7.3 Group Membership Status

2.7.4 Employee Psychological Outcomes

2.7.5 Leadership Style and Leader-Member Exchange

2.7.6 Leadership Style and Group Membership Status

2.7.7 Leadership Style and Employee Psychological Outcomes

2.7.8 Leader-Member Exchange and Group Membership Status

2.7.9 Leader-Member Exchange and Employee Psychological Outcomes

2.7.10 Group Membership Status and Employee Psychological Outcomes
CHAPTER III METHODOLOGY

3.1 Sample and Procedures

3.2 Measurement

3.2.1 Leadership Style

3.2.2 Leader-Member Exchange

3.2.3 Group Membership Status

3.2.4 Employee Psychological Outcomes

CHAPTER IV RESULTS

4.1 Testing the Proposed Model

4.1.1 Leadership Style and Leader-Member Exchange

4.1.2 Leadership Style and Group Membership Status

4.1.3 Leadership Style and Employee Psychological Outcomes

4.1.4 Leader-Member Exchange and Group Membership Status (H6)

4.1.5 Leader-Member Exchange and Employee Psychological Outcomes (H7)

4.1.6 Group Membership Status and Employee Psychological Outcomes (H8)

4.2 Respondent Organizational Background and the LMX Process

CHAPTER V DISCUSSION

5.1 Leadership Style

5.2 Leadership Style and LMX

5.3 LMX and Group Membership Status

5.4 Group Membership Status and Employee Psychological Outcomes

5.5 Other Plausible Relations among the Variables